

The center for Adaptive Rationality directed by Ralph Hertwig at the Max Planck Institute for Human Development is seeking applicants for

Two Research Internships

Research internships typically last 3 months. The anticipated start date is June 1st, 2017.

Requirements

- ⤴ Enrollment in Psychology, Economics or a related subject at a European university
- ⤴ High interest in participating in research on judgment and decision-making
- ⤴ High flexibility and commitment
- ⤴ Good proficiency in English

Desired qualifications (not all are necessary to apply)

- ⤴ Experience in conducting literature search
- ⤴ Skills in statistics and statistical software packages
- ⤴ Skills in qualitative data analysis

What we offer

The Center for Adaptive Rationality is investigating various aspects of judgment and decision-making. We offer you the chance to participate in an international and interdisciplinary research team. You will assist in a broad literature review, in which you will be asked to classify the experimental methods within a number of scientific articles. This task provides an excellent learning opportunity for students interested in judgment and decision making. You will interact with scientists doing research using behavioral, computational and/or neuroscience methods to study the cognitive, affective, social and/or developmental basis for decision making. The Max Planck Society is committed to employing more handicapped individuals and especially encourages them to apply. The Max Planck Society seeks to increase the number of women in those areas where they are underrepresented and therefore explicitly encourages women to apply.

How to apply

The deadline for submitting applications is May 7th, 2017. Please send your application electronically to arc-jobs@mpib-berlin.mpg.de using the subject line “Application Research Internship 1705”. Your application should include the following documents in a single PDF document: (a) a short motivation letter, (b) CV, and (c) relevant school/university certificates and references.
